statement tauākī

I facilitate creative learning opportunities for groups and individuals seeking to expand beyond everyday patterns to develop new connections and new perspectives. I lead participants in immersive activities, using my experiences and skills from working in holistic movement practices, international arts production, community outreach, tertiary teacher training, and professional development. I help people tap into their unique capacity to be inventive, imaginative and insightful. I invite teams to embrace their diverse perspectives, to foster generous collaboration, and to work together to evolve new outlooks and shape shared goals. I use my research training, project experience and counselling skills to ground discoveries in clear accessible language and focused action plans.
